Contractor cited for additional hazardous waste violations

DEP cleans up thousands of gallons of waste, including some contaminated by pesticide

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A "routine compliance inspection" in April by the Maine Department of Environmental Protection has found several more alleged environmental violations at the D.A. Wilson Company headquarters on Vernon Street in Greenwood.

Following an earlier DEP inspection, conducted in December of last year, Wilson was issued a "Notice of Violations and Enforcement Intent" (NOV) that listed six areas of violation, including discharge of hazardous waste and failure to report the discharges; chronic discharges, also unreported, of oil and other petroleum products; and improper storage and labeling of waste.

But a follow-up compliance inspection in April uncovered numerous other violations, which had been undetected during the previous inspection.

On July 16 the DEP issued a second NOV, this one listing 20 violations. DEP also drastically increased its determination of the volume of hazardous waste involved.

DEP hazardous waste specialist Tim Wright conducted both inspections. He said that in the two-and-a-half years he has worked on such matters, the second NOV was "the longest I've ever written."

As was the case with the earlier NOV, the violations cited included numerous cases (new cases, Wright said) of improper storage and/or discharge of solvents, waste oils contaminated with hazardous waste and ignitable paint wastes.

Pesticides and party spills

This time, however, the violations also included the transportation of two containers containing "hazardous waste pesticide mixed with waste oil intended to be burned in a waste oil furnace."

Wright said he was told the waste oil came from the Ladd Farm.

Of the 20 containers involved in this violation, Wright said, only two were tested for pesticides, and both tested positive.

He said that he didn't know if any of that waste oil had spilled on the ground (a sand-and-gravel aquifer).

But, he said, "There were certainly several different areas of stained soils, showing that there had been leakage from the drums."

Also leaking into the ground was gasoline. According to the NOV: "stained soils in the 'outside drum storage area' and the gravel pit demonstrate chronic discharges of oil and other petroleum products. During the April 17, 2002 inspection, several Wilson employees stated that during a company party the previous fall a fuel dispenser was knocked down and approximately 200 to 300 gallons of gasoline was discharged into the ground."

The second inspection also found more than a dozen "obsolete underground storage tanks" located in a gravel pit in a "sensitive geological area."

A contractor hired by the DEP pumped 700 gallons of water and waste oil from the tanks.

A number of the violations cited in the second NOV involved the failure to properly identify and label potentially hazardous waste — including 20 lead acid batteries located in that same gravel pit.

According to Wright, many of the new violations were found at an "outside drum storage area" referred to above, an area that Wilson had not told the inspectors of during their first visit.

The second NOV states: "During the Dec. 3, 2001 inspection and in subsequent correspondence prior to

Tuneful, cheerful school bus driver one of top three in Maine

By ALISON ALOISIO

A SAD44 bus driver who "sings like an angel" to the children on her bus has been recognized as one of the top three drivers in the state.

Evelyn Morin, a 31-year veteran driver, was selected as one of three finalists for the Bus Driver Excellence Award. The award was given at the Maine Association for Pupil Transportation annual conference, held at Sugarloaf in late July.

Morin has driven bus routes throughout the district over the years. She currently drives in Greenwood, along the ponds of the Greenwood Road and over Rowe Hill.

Fellow-drivers Jo-Ann Korhonen and Kathy Scherf nominated her, describing her in a letter as quiet, but having "an overwhelming love for children."

She also received letters of support from other co-workers and supervisors. Morin was particularly pleased with one from a teacher who rode with her on the bus when he was young — Levi Brown, lead teacher at the Crescent Park Elementary School.

Telstar's size appeals to its new principal

By ALISON ALOISIO

Shawn Lambert takes the helm next week as Telstar's third new principal in as many years.

But, he says, he's not planning to continue the recent trend. "I'm not going to be a one-year principal," he said last week.

Lambert succeeds Dave Murphy, who moved up to the SAD44 superintendency with the recent departure of Kent Rosberg. Murphy last year took over from Patrick O'Neill, who left after only a year to become principal at Lewiston High School.

Lambert, coincidentally, served as O'Neill's assistant principal before accepting the Telstar job.

"I'll do everything I can to provide stability," said Lambert.

He said he was attracted to the Telstar position because the school "has all the right things going for it. It's the right size — not too big, not too small. And it has the forward momentum the faculty has put into it," he said. Lambert cited the Promising Futures program,

Wildlife refuge is the focus of wide range of concerns

By REBECCA ZICARELLI

The Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge staff heard the concerns of about 15 people, covering a range of issues from waterway over-use to trapping, at a meeting held Friday evening at the Bethel Inn.

The meeting was held to gather public input for a Conservation Comprehensive Plan (CCP) that will be developed over the next year, and will guide the refuge's management for the next 15 years.

This is the preliminary stage of the plan, where information from a variety of sources, including public comment and staff experience, is gathered. That input will be compiled into a list of issues the refuge must address in a plan.

Nancy McGarigal, a refuge planner for the Northeast Region of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, explained that the process was mandated by a federal law, the 1997 Refuge Improvement Act.

This Act, McGarigal said, defines the purpose of a refuge as establishing and conserving migratory birds, threatened species, and unique biodiversity of areas such as wetlands.

The Refuge Act identifies six public uses that a refuge must also review: environmental education, fishing, hunting, interpretation, photography, and wildlife observation.

McGarigal said that unlike national forests and parks, the refuge is a multiple-use area. A refuge's primary purpose is to protect and conserve wildlife resources.

"At Lake Umbagog, we have two purposes," McGarigal said, "to conserve wetlands, the lake and adjacent areas, and to provide a sanctuary for migratory birds. If there is any conflict, it is resolved in favor of these resources."

Already, the refuge staff has begun an individual species assessment. This will identify the species in the refuge now, and the habitats

Kendall joins the list of closed mills

By ALISON ALOISIO

The domino effect of foreign competition has brought down another Bethel-area wood products business.

Kendall Dowel Mill laid off its eight employees last Wednesday, owner Nancy McKinney said.

"One of the biggest reasons was that our customers were going out of business," she said, in large part due to foreign import competition.

Among the dowel manufacturer's customers was Bethel Furniture Stock, which laid off most of its employees in June.

McKinney said she and a relative are continuing to work this week and next to finish filling out a few more orders before completely closing down.

"I'd love to sell (the business), and I've been trying to, but there's no market," she said. "It's very difficult to do business in the wood products industry."

She has owned Kendall for the past six and one-half years. McKinney said she was sorry for her employees "that things turned out this way. I'd like to say thank you to all my employees. We were a wonderful team."

Kendall Dowel was founded in the 1940s by Clayton and Maurice Kendall.

A NEW APPRECIATION

To the Editor:

Unexpected news often results in a new appreciation of what one takes for granted. With the recent changes at Sunday River, Wendy and I have had the opportunity to think long and hard about our life and our future. We realize how fortunate we are to live in this community and to have had the chance to contribute. The phone calls, letters and words of encouragement from so many friends mean a lot to us and are very much appreciated. The relationship between Sunday River and the community is vital for both to thrive and be successful. Sunday River is doing well and will continue to be an industry leader with many good people there to make it happen.

We're not sure where our next opportunity will take us. In the meantime, maybe I'll have time to volunteer at some of those community events. Thank you for all of your support, both now and for the last 15 years.

THANKS FOR THE LANDSCAPING

To the Editor:

The Conservation Commission would like to thank the following people for volunteering to work on the Bethel Pathway landscaping project this spring and early summer. Cyndy Bush, Ruth Feeney, Barbara Lyon, Seabury Lyon, Mary McPheters, Hank Messier, and Lynne Zimmerman, along with members of the Conservation Commission, put in 72 hours of work over several weeks. Thanks to all. It wouldn't have happened without them.

If anyone is interested and would like to help with this long-term project in the future, please give me a call at 824-0508. There will be some work this fall and another planning and planting project next spring.

CHURCH FOR SALE?

To the Editor:

Yes, the Nazarene Church has a "For Sale" sign on the front lawn. No, we are not closing our doors — only looking toward the future. The future is our precious children, teens and adults. As we follow God's leading we believe we need to expand where people of all ages have room to grow. We seek space for our children and youth to run and play, not in the streets; room for off-road parking, and a smaller multi-purpose church.

As God leads our people forward, land will be located, and the old property sold. We will build and be better equipped to meet the needs of people in our community.

TOWNS, FIX UP YOUR CEMETERIES

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in the hope that the towns will see it and do something about fixing up their cemeteries. I have some pictures of what the cemeteries look like. They are in poor condition. According to the laws of the Cemetery Association if the towns don't fix up the graves they can be fined.

I will give the towns two months to start fixing and cleaning up the cemeteries. Then, if they are not what I think they should be, I will send the pictures to the Cemetery Association. Then I will let them do what they have to do to get the cemeteries cleaned and everything fixed the way it should be. I have been to more than 300 cemeteries.

BELATED FIREWORKS THANKS

To the Editor:

It has been a month since our first (and hopefully annual) Bethel Fireworks Committee Independence Day Celebration.

I apologize for my tardiness, but I wish to offer my heartfelt thanks to the members of the committee, the citizens and businesses of the Bethel Area (too numerous to mention individually), the Town of Woodstock, the Bethel Inn and Country Club for the generous donation of both money and their glorious facilities, and to Sunday River for including us in their fireworks program and the huge savings in money that resulted.

I truly hope that the program will be continued, and that the event may even grow in time and scope to include a full day of celebration in the future.

It is our area of America, and we have every reason to be proud of our country and our part in it.

BEFORE THERE WERE PLOWS—A snow roller used in the early part of the 20th century to roll winter roads in the Sunday River Valley will be on display this weekend during Sudbury Canada Days (Schedule, page 10). Avery Angevine, shown here on the roller, has worked since April to restore it. It will later be moved to a permanent site on the grounds of the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center.

SNOW ROLLER RESTORED

To the Editor:

In 1976, the Bethel Historical Society, through the efforts of Romeo Baker and Randall Bennett, acquired the Sunday River snow roller, used in the region to pack the roads down for "good sleighing" from about 1900 to 1927 when a new tractor and plow were acquired by the Town of Newry. Since that time the roller has "resided" in a number of barns and sheds. About 1995, my father took a great interest in this artifact. He cut oak on his woodlot; Ernest Angevine sawed out the pieces that formed the rolling surface. For the last few years of his life, my father spent many hours fitting these pieces onto the roller. Just before his death in 1999, he finished the job and told me that someone else would have to do the seat, framework, and "tongue" for the horses to haul.

Earlier this year, it was moved from beside my barn to Avery Angevine's work area, where he proceeded to complete what my father had said needed doing. Avery has done a remarkable job of restoring the snow roller, putting in over 175 hours of volunteer service. He was assisted in this project by a variety of people and businesses, that supplied wood, bolts, braces, or other equipment, transported the roller or moved logs. The society is very grateful to Avery and all of the following for making my father's dream a reality: Tom Wheeler, Tim Korhonen, Roy Newton, Donald G. Bennett (Park Street), Berlin Spring Company, Brooks Bros., Inc., Hancock Lumber, Ernest Angevine, and D. A. Wilson and Sons.

The snow roller is expected to be on exhibit this weekend during Sudbury Canada Days. I hope everyone will take a look and thank all of the above for making the restoration of this historic artifact possible. It will later be moved to a permanent site on the grounds of the society's Regional History Center, where it can be seen by visitors for years to come.

asked the judging panel to: "Think family — because Evelyn truly is an extension of each child's family. She treats each child as an individual, understanding that each child has different needs. She attends family outings, takes her kids on field trips and on trips to the local ice cream shop. She provides articles of clothing for those in need. She gives prizes to those who have achieved a special goal."

Morin also provides soothing musical entertainment for the children on her elementary runs. She sings songs "to get them happy before they get to school," she said. Her repertoire ranges from carols at Christmas time to the favorite "Ka Sera Sera."

Morin said a SAD44 athletic coach riding the bus recently asked, "Do you still sing to the kids?" He, like Brown, had ridden her bus as a youngster.

The challenges

It's not all happy times on the bus. For instance, discipline issues do arise from time to time.

But as Brown noted in his letter, "The few times there is a discipline situation on the bus, she will ask me to sit down with her and the child to talk out the situation before it 'gets out of hand,' as she likes to put it."

And despite those situations, Morin is apparently still able to keep the children's respect and affection.

She said she remembers a boy who had had some discipline problems. But when the time came for his family to move away, "He said he was going to miss me," she said.

Besides behavior challenges, there's the winter driving on the Greenwood Road to deal with. Morin's route past the ponds leaves her holding her breath on slippery days.

"I take it very slow," she said. Life on the bus also has its share of humor and unusual occurrences.

One day, said Morin, she had just dropped off a little kindergarten boy at his house when she got a call on her radio from Burnie Rice, SAD44's transportation supervisor. "Did you find a pair of false teeth on the bus?" he wanted to know.

Looking around, Morin spotted the dentures on a seat.

It turned out the little boy had visited his grandmother the night before, saw her false teeth, and decided he'd borrow them to bring to school the next day.

"She was looking all over for her teeth," said Morin. "The little boy's father had to catch up with me in his car to get them back."

Gifts of gratitude

For dealing with false teeth, winter roads and generally looking after the safety and welfare of the children, Morin also receives the informal recognition of parents. She gets gifts of all kinds — food at Christmas time, flowers, gift certificates, even perfume.

One family gave her a rock shaped like a school bus that they had painted yellow and black, she said.

Despite her many years of driving, Morin isn't planning to retire anytime soon. Parents and their children can look forward to seeing her behind the wheel for the foreseeable future.

"If my health stays good, and my senses stay good, I plan to keep on driving," she said.

DRIVERS RECOGNIZED—SAD44 bus driver Evelyn Morin (third from left) was honored with a plaque for being among three finalists for School Bus Driver of the Year by the Maine Association for Pupil Transportation. Also recognized for their role in promoting school bus safety were drivers Kathy Scherf and Jo-Ann Korhonen. With the drivers is Burnie Rice, district transportation supervisor.

Briefly

Teen killed in Gore Road crash

GREENWOOD—A young man from Roxbury was killed and four others injured Friday night in a car crash on the Gore Road. Donald Ryerson, 18, who has also lived in Bethel, died in the 10:30 p.m. accident. Driver David Borst, 18, of Bryant Pond and passenger David Ojeda, 19, of Bethel were injured. They were treated at Stephens Memorial Hospital. The other two passengers, Adam Christopher, 17, of Greenwood and Joshua Morgan, 18, of the Bethel area, were treated and released at Rumford Hospital. State police said the 1991 Chevrolet Corsica was traveling from Locke Mills toward Route 232, near Johnny's Bridge Road, when the driver lost control and the car spun around, striking a utility pole. Speed was reportedly a factor in the crash, according to trooper John Hainey. It appeared none of the occupants was wearing a seat belt, he said.

Mil rate set at 12.3

NEWRY—Selectmen Tuesday set the mil rate for this year at 12.3, up from 11.9. The increase reflects increases in the SAD44 assessment ($132,923); and county tax ($11,685). The municipal appropriation stayed nearly the same. This year's tax commitment is $2.4 million, with an overlay of $26,712. Last year's overlay was $67,307. Tax bills were expected to be mailed out yesterday (Wednesday).

New skiway head meets selectmen

NEWRY—Selectmen met Tuesday with John Diller, the new managing director for Sunday River/Sugarloaf, and Marvin Collins, who Diller said will now handle the "day-to-day" management at Sunday River. Last week, the jobs of Chip Seamans, Sunday River managing director, Bob Harkins, vice president for resort services, and George Driscoll, marketing director, were eliminated. Diller previously served as managing director for Sugarloaf only. He said he will continue to reside in Carrabassett Valley, but will spend about two-thirds of his working time at Sunday River. Diller said last week was an emotional one at the resort, "and we have a lot of challenges ahead."

Others with new duties at skiway

NEWRY—As part of the recent merging of some administration at Sunday River Ski Resort and Sugarloaf/USA, several people, in addition to managing director John Diller and vice president of sales and marketing Jim Costello, will assume new responsibilities. Chuck Donnelly, who served as resort director of sales at Sunday River, will oversee sales for the two resorts; Jeff Rosenberg, formerly director of retail and buying for American Skiing, will be in charge of retail operations at both; and Cathy Witherspoon, vice president of skier services at Sugarloaf, will be vice president of Perfect Turn and Skier Development, running ski schools for both resorts.

Four arrested in Mills Market burglary

ANDOVER—Two young men from Andover and two 16-year-olds from Rangeley were charged with burglary last Wednesday after trying to break into Mills Market, near the center of town, according to state police. Glendon Palmer, 20, and Nathan Palmer, 19, and the two juveniles reportedly entered a window and set off an alarm at 11 p.m. Tuesday night. As they left, they dropped their car keys, then left on foot. The juveniles were later found in a car on Route 5. The Palmer brothers were arrested at a campsite in Andover North Surplus.

Angevine Park donations sought

BETHEL—The "Jump In" fundraising drive for the Angevine Park Recreational Area is seeking private donations to support the community swimming area on the North Road, according to Don Bennett, chairman of the Bethel Beach Committee. Donors will be recognized on a plaque at the swimming site, with their permission, he said. Pledge cards are available at the Town Office, or donations may be sent to the APRA Fund at P.O. Box 1660, Bethel 04217. For more information call Bennett at 824-2526.

Plan inventory at Town Office

GREENWOOD—An inventory/analysis of information collected by the Greenwood Comprehensive Plan Committee is available for review by the public at the Town Office. The committee recently completed the 106-page assessment of topics, including natural resources, population and housing. It describes how the town has changed over the past decade. The information will be used to create a comprehensive plan, based on opinions expressed by residents last November regarding their wishes for Greenwood's future. People who review the inventory may still make suggestions in writing at the Town Office. The committee meets every second Monday of the month.

McFalls crash kills one

MECHANIC FALLS—An 18-year-old Norway man was killed Monday night when the pickup truck in which he was a passenger flipped over on the Lane Road. Travis Van Durme, 18, died at the scene after he was thrown from the vehicle. The driver, Joshua Mason, 19, of West Paris, was trapped under the truck. He was freed and taken to Central Maine Medical Center by helicopter. A third man, Brett Jackson, 18, whose address was not known, was also taken to CMMC. Investigators said speed was likely a factor in the accident.

Man charged in Sweden killing

NORWAY—A 57-year-old Norway man was arrested and charged with murder last Thursday in the shooting death of his former girlfriend in Sweden. James Nadeau is accused of shooting Barbara Bassett in her home off Route 93. Nadeau was taken into custody at his trailer home in the Town and County Mobile Home Village following about 45 minutes of negotiations. On Monday, Nadeau was denied bail in 11th District Court in South Paris. An autopsy showed Bassett died from four gunshot wounds. Police are still searching for the murder weapon.

Throop scholarship offered at Gould

BETHEL—Gould Academy has announced the establishment of the William M. (Pete) Throop Jr. Scholarship, intended to provide assistance to a student from the greater Bethel area and nearby communities to attend the academy. Throop of New Canaan, Conn., a former Gould trustee, died in June 2002. For more information, see Gould column on page 9.

Asbestos, other problems at station

OXFORD—Discoveries of heaps of crumbly asbestos, animal carcasses and signs of waste oil at the Oxford transfer station have prompted the Department of Environmental Protection to look more closely at what is being left at the facility. DEP visited the station in June and found numerous problems. When an inspector revisited the site in late July, he found the asbestos and other problems hadn't been taken care of. The materials pose health risks because the station is above an aquifer and near a well that serves a nearby trailer park. "We have over 400 municipalities and over half of them have transfer stations," said Bill Butler of DEP. "This is far worse than most we inspect. It demonstrates a town in severe noncompliance." DEP has not leveled fines to date. So far, Oxford has been billed $20,250 for cleaning up 300 pounds of asbestos.

From the Bethel Police Log:

Group assault in village

On Sunday, Aug. 4 at 1:05 a.m. police responded to Philbrook Street for a report of subjects fighting with bats and pipes. On arrival the assailants were gone, but the subjects assaulted and witnesses said three unknown male subjects came onto their property, and when asked why they were there the subjects began to swear and taunt them. The subjects then charged the group. Four more subjects then showed up, and also began to swear at the group as well. Statement forms were provided the complainants.

Thursday, Aug. 1

At 8:33 p.m. a caller reported dirt bikes without headlights operating in the Flat Road area.

At 6:05 p.m. a caller reported a car traveling west on Route 2 throwing firecrackers at passing cars.

Monday, Aug. 5

At 4:30 p.m. police received a report that on Sunday someone had removed an electric winch from a resident's boat trailer while it was parked in his driveway.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log. It lists all cases of adults being arrested or issued a criminal summons, but does not include all reports of other police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies.

SHAWN LAMBERT

which provides activities and resources outside the traditional academic offerings.

Lambert said he is also "intrigued by the mix of grade levels at the school," meaning the grades six through 12 combination. A joint high and middle school, he said, usually includes only grades seven through 12.

Lambert sees the seven-grade range, with its resources grouped in one location, as providing more educational opportunities for students.

Asked what he considers his strengths as a school leader, Lambert said, "I'm a collaborative leader. I like to work within a system. I don't generally come in with preconceived notions."

In keeping with that approach, he said, he plans to first observe and assess the current programs at the school, looking for strengths and supporting them.

Lambert, who lives in New Gloucester, said he will commute to Bethel, at least at first.

His wife is a nurse at Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston. They are the parents of two preschool children.

Lambert will assume his duties officially on Monday.

Refuge

that support each.

Paul Casey, refuge manager, reminded the audience of the refuge's history. It was established in 1992, as a cooperative effort by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Maine and New Hampshire, private conservation groups, and private timber holdings. Today, it is comprised of 16,300 acres of land.

Casey said the refuge is home to bald eagles, osprey, black-back woodpecker, pine grosbeak, moose, spruce grouse, and loon. Lake Umbagog has the densest population of loons — 32 nesting pairs — in New England.

There are also a number of ongoing activities that the refuge oversees. Many involve wildlife management. The refuge staff performs pitfall trapping and analysis of small mammals; vegetation mapping, eagle banding; loon surveys; stream amphibian monitoring; and winter carnivore surveys.

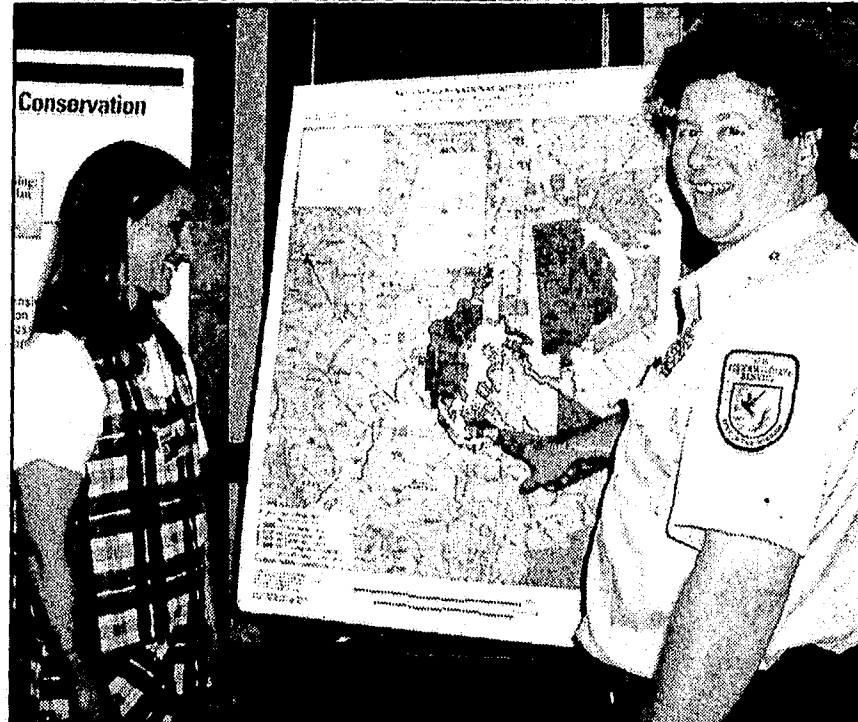

But they also conduct a number of programs designed for people. They run a hunting program with six blinds (hunters are also allowed to build their own); environmental education programs; boat tours of the refuge; and they manage 15 remote campsites on the refuge in conjunction with the state of New Hampshire.

The refuge also sponsors festivals and events, including the Lake Umbagog Wildlife Festival and the upcoming "Take Me Fishing" day, scheduled for Aug. 17. Then, people new to fishing will get a one-day license, and be shown the ropes of fishing.

The plan developed by the refuge must address all these activities, and determine if they are in keeping with the refuge's purpose.

Casey said the preliminary work of assessing the refuge's wildlife and vegetation was critical. "It gives us a baseline, tells us where we are today. Because what we do affects migratory birds, not just waterfowl."

Local bird carver Mike Murphy

USFWS STAFFERS Nancy McGarigal, refuge planner for the Northeast, and Paul Casey, manager for the refuge, are on the team developing a Conservation Comprehensive Plan (CCP) for the Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge. They met with Bethel area residents Friday, to discuss concerns people have for the refuge. This public input will be used in the CCP, which will guide the refuge's management for the next 15 years.

attended the meeting. Through his work, he said he's learned that he must teach people about the birds they carve from wood.

"People know very little about wildlife and their problems," Murphy said. "What are you going to do about education about migratory birds and their allies? How do we keep them alive, how do we keep them healthy?"

Casey agreed that it should be addressed in the plan. "Right now, what we do is fairly limited."

Bob Folsom, of Albany, owns property on Lake Umbagog, and attended one of the previous meetings.

Folsom placed a high priority on fire protection. He also spoke of the concerns of residents from Wentworth Location, N.H., where the town's tax income was cut in half after the refuge was created. Any new plan should, Folsom said, fairly compensate towns for tax revenues that were lost.

Folsom, a former professional trapper, felt trapping shouldn't be allowed. But another person disagreed, suggesting that it was imprudent to remove wildlife management tools from the refuge's use.

Kevin Slater of Newry felt the two most important issues were property taxes and problems caused by increased recreational use from boaters. He suggested that the refuge work with outfitters, teaching river etiquette.

"There are more people to the south of us, and they keep coming up," he said. "You're going to have to address current usage, project recreational use, and plan for it."

Bill Hanson, a biologist of Florida Power and Light (FPL), agreed. "When we do a (water) release, there are mobs of kayakers." (FPL purchased a number of hydroelectric dams from Central Maine Power, including the dams on Lake Azischoos and Lake Umbagog. FPL controls all of the water flowing through the refuge except the water from the Dead Cambridge River.)

Hanson pointed out that usually, there are no restroom facilities available to recreational boaters, though there may be 200 or more people out on the Rapid River during a release.

These comments, along with others, will be combined into a draft plan of issues, goals, and tasks. McGarigal said the staffers hope to have a draft available for public review by the fall of 2003.

Anyone wishing to comment on the refuge can do so by calling the refuge at (603) 482-3415, by e-mail at fw5_lunwr@fws.gov, or by mail, Lake Umbagog WFR, P.O. Box 240, Errol, N.H. 03579.

A number of management issues for the Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge have already been identified. They include:

--What forest wildlife should be a management priority, and how should the refuge manage them?

--What aquatic species and habitats should be a management priority, and how should the refuge manage them?

--What is the refuge's responsibilities in managing Lake Umbagog's water levels with Florida Power and Light?

--How should the refuge manage the six priority public-uses, environmental education, fishing, hunting, interpretation, photography, and wildlife observation?

--How should the refuge manage non-priority recreational use, including the increasing use of the waterways by boaters?

--Should a trapping program be established on the refuge?

--How should the refuge manage remote camping? (Currently, there are 15 remote sites on the refuge, managed by the State of New Hampshire.)

--What should the U.S. Fish and Wildlife's role be in land conservation efforts for the upper-Androscoggin watershed? Should they pursue refuge expansion?

--How should management of the upper-Androscoggin watershed be coordinated with other state and federal agencies?

--What facilities are needed to effectively manage the refuge?

Violations

the April 17, 2002 inspection, Wilson did not reveal the presence of the 'outside drum storage area' referenced in the above citations or the presence of stained soils or past gasoline and waste oil discharges to the Department. In the March 7, 2002 Notice of Violation and Enforcement Intent, Wilson was required to report all spills, consolidate all containers of liquid wastes to an appropriate storage area, profile all wastes on site, document removal of all containers of hazardous wastes on site, and to provide secondary containment for all hazardous wastes and waste oils. Wilson has failed to meet these requirements." (Bold type in original.)

The NOV continues: "In addition, the Department re-inspected the trench drain and floor drains at Wilson's during the April 17, 2002 site visit and found fresh discharges of petroleum in both drains in the old shop/tire storage shed. Laboratory analysis of two drains located in the old shop indicated total petroleum hydrocarbons at 52,200 and 3,760 ppm.

"Due to the repeat discharge violations at the facility and its location adjacent to a stream and over a sand and gravel aquifer, the Department has hired a contractor to remove all waste oils, hazardous wastes, tanks and other containers from the site. To date the Department's contractor, Environmental Projects, Inc., has removed approximately 2,400 gallons of waste oil, five 55-gallon containers of oil contaminated soil and debris, two five-gallon containers of hazardous wastes, three 30-gallon containers of hazardous wastes and thirteen 55-gallon containers of hazardous wastes from the site. Additional wastes may be removed under Department supervision pending further investigation. The Department will seek reimbursement for all costs associated with this response action and cleanup, as stated in a letter to Wilson dated April 22, 2002."

Wright said the DEP expects to conclude the matter with an administrative consent agreement and enforcement order, which will probably include a fine.

If an agreement cannot be reached, the matter will be turned over to the Maine Attorney General's Office, Wright said.

provides an opportunity for women whose lives have been profoundly affected by breast cancer to experi-

beautiful natural setting and learn fly fishing, a sport for life. Over 200 breast cancer survivors have participated in the program. Any woman who has experienced breast cancer is eligible to participate in a CFR retreat. She may still be in treatment or perhaps her battle with breast cancer was decades ago.
Each retreat is offered, including lodging and meals, at no cost to the participant. The Orvis Company provides the fly fishing gear for the attendees to use during each retreat.

The retreat was held at Libby

Ann Parker, formerly of Bethel, met there. It was a wonderful experience sponsored by Orvis.
Camp food, etc., was all donated by the owners of the camps, Mat and taught how to handle a fly rod, tie

all the knots, and even catch a fish.
Carol was the lucky one; she caught a nice salmon. The instrucrod was in full golden bloom in mid-July. Not my favorite flowering plant, but it, too, is pretty. The tansy is also beginning to proudly show its yellow flowers. It is not as showy or large as other plants, but it is seen along most roadsides in the area. It is poisonous to animals, and therefore makes a great ant retardant. I put some on the counter and it deters them for several days.

Then it is time to pick some more. I know there is a more organized way to go about it, but I haven't learned it, yet, or I am just too lazy to make it into pillows, etc.

Due to one thing or the other, I haven't had time to go blueberry picking, yet. I will soon and then I can look forward to blueberry pancakes, blueberry smoothies and all manner of other blueberry treats. I can't wait till then. Hopefully, when I get around to it there will be plenty of berries left.

On morning walk the other day, Tashi and I spied moose tracks. It was obviously of a smaller animal, but the moose was nowhere to be found, this time. I am still hoping for a sighting of the bear, but I can wait till a time when Tashi isn't with me. The last thing I would need is for Tasha to chase a bear.
Not being much of a barker, except at Gail when she delivers the paper, she would not be apt to startle the bear and it just might decide to stay and fight.

I just listened to a news report about the latest fad in cities, lifestyle coaches. Can you imagine having so much disposable income and so little life that you'd need a coach to tell you how to live it?
They get $200 to $300 dollars an hour. I'm in the wrong business. I suspect all of you out there are, too.
Maybe it's time for us all to go back to school and become lifestyle counselors. Of course, we'd all have to move to a big city, but at that pay, we could work three days/week for only a few months/year, and still live here the rest of the time. Any takers?

Motorcycle traffic has been heavy this week as there was a motorcycle rally this weekend. David declined to go. He thought they'd laugh at his aging Honda Gold-wing. Perhaps they would, but I got the idea it was a rally of "old" bikes. In any case, we did not attend, but I did spy the bikes running up and down the road. There were many cars, too, so I'd guess it was well attended.

Speaking of cars, the early morning traffic is growing. All seem to be in a hurry to get to where they're going. Being so early, and being consistent, they must either be Outward Bounders, or Jordan Bowl early morning employees. In any case, I wish they'd slow down before they hit someone or something. I hate to wish them on a moose, but that is as likely to happen as that they'd hit Tasha and I or one of the early morning runners.
There goes one now. New mufflers

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

Food is an obsession. I used to think it was just me that was obsessed with the idea of food, but it's not. I have come to the conclusion that everyone everywhere is obsessed with the idea of food.

Have you ever gone to a carnival without getting something to eat? Can you honestly say that you can walk right by the French fry stand, the candied apples, the cotton candy or that most marvelous confection, fried dough, without succumbing to temptation? No, you can't.

Going to a carnival is an eating experience. You may tell yourself you're going for the kids, but your mouth starts watering for your carnival favorite food long before you get there.

Can you go to a sporting event without giving in to a hot dog? How about watching a movie without popcorn?
How long can you watch television before a commercial showing how much fun people are having eating something sends you rummaging through the refrigerator? How many food or bake sales can you walk by before you end up getting at least a piece of fudge or a brownie?

Food is a major attraction everywhere we go. I'd hate to think of a county fair without food. I don't know of any festivals or celebrations where food isn't part of the focus. No wonder
I can't stick to a diet.

It's even prevalent in our language;
e.g., "food for thought," "eat your heart out," "don't put all your eggs in one basket." If you think you can escape it, you're full of bologna.

Having the curious mind that I do, I wondered just where some of these food phrases came from so I did some of that famous (you guessed it) Bouchard research.

I wondered, for example, why we use the phrase "bring home the bacon"
when it has nothing to do with pork.
We normally refer to the bacon as money or a prize when we make this statement. But I have found out that originally it was bacon that was the coveted trophy.

It seems that way back around 1445 in Essex County, England, couples who were married in a certain church in Donmow would be asked to return on their first anniversary. Because the happy couple was still together it was assumed that they lived in wedded harmony and were awarded salted bacon to take home as a reward.

As time went on and there were more and more marriages, the demand for the pork was
bigger than the supply,
which hardly
went on and there were
more and more marriages, the demand for the pork was
bigger than the supply,
which hardly

seems odd since back in those days it was almost impossible to get out of a marriage making for a lot of first anniversaries. Anyway, it came to the point where there just wasn't enough bacon to go around. The church formed a jury of six men and six women (curiously enough, all were unmarried) to question each of the happy couples.

The ones that answered to the jury's satisfaction went home with the bacon, whereas the ones who failed the test went home empty handed. The losers probably fought all the way home, blaming each other and ruining an otherwise happy union.

Then there's the old favorite "talking turkey", which we perceive as meaning telling it like it is - getting down to the real nitty gritty of an issue. My research revealed that there really was a turkey involved in the origins of this phrase.

A long time ago, an Indian and a white man went out hunting together.
At the end of the hunt, their spoils consisted of a turkey and a buzzard. It is recorded in history that the white man said to the Indian, "You take the buzzard and I'll take the turkey, or better yet, I'll take the turkey and you take the buzzard."

The story goes that at this point the Indian thought a while about this proposal while stroking his tomahawk, then said to his companion, "We better sit down and talk turkey." I think that the white man's great-grandson may have become one of the first used car salesmen.

We all know that "let them eat cake" is attributed to Marie Antoinette when the starving masses were rioting in the streets of Paris. But, I'll bet you didn't know that she didn't mean cake as in birthday or wedding. What Marie was referring to was the crusted remains that stick to the bread pans after the loaves were removed.

This didn't make her any less thoughtless and cruel, since the bread crusts were no more available to the peasants than a chocolate layer cake.
So the next time you feel you could lose your head over a three-tiered frosted delight, remember that Ms.
Antoinette lost hers over much less.

Whole on the subject of cake, how about "taking a cakewalk"? This one does involve taking a cake as a prize. It dates back to the southern slavery days when the slaves, as a way to amuse themselves (there wasn't much amusing in their lives) created a contest called cakewalking.

The participants would put on their most imaginative strut, which often included steps that later evolved into tap dancing. The winner of the contest took the prize, which was, as you now know, a cake.

Eating "humble pie" is something that I have done more times than I care to remember, but fortunately for me, it was easier to deal with than the real humble pie, which was actually "umble pie."

Back in 11th century England, when a villager shot a deer, he, his oldest son and his best male friend got to eat the meat. His wife, who had to cook the meat, the remaining children and the family of his best friend got the "umbles," or to be more exact, the innards. Have men really changed all that much?

Anyway, to make the "umbles" more palatable, the hunter's humble wife would season them and bake them into a pie, thus, "humble pie."

So you see, food and eating obsessions have been with us for a very long time. What is the moral to all of this?
A husband who may be a ham might bring home the bacon, and his wife who may be a cold fish could make him eat humble pie. They both may take the cake and cakewalk off into the land of milk and honey with egg on their faces
while they talk turkey.

But the way I see it, no one has yet figured out how to have their cake and eat it too!

This is the last week of summer school. My students are restless, but beginning to produce. They all want to pass. Spending one's summer in classes, one ought to at least have something to show for it. With Dave's help, I will give each of them a crystal to take home.

A big welcome to Shawn Lambert; he is the new principal at Telstar. I worked with Shawn at Lewiston High School and I think the students and staff will be pleased with him. Congratulations, Shawn.

That is all for this week. Am off to teach and then maybe to pick blueberries. Watch out for those thunderstorms and have a good week.

Neil Olson's college baseball team just finished its season. The season was not that great.

15-27, but he was pleased with the turnout of people who came to see the games. Most games had about 800 people watching, and the last game of the season had a full house. Thirty-five people from Bethel attended one game. Neil says he had a fun and enjoyable summer with his team.

The Trappers' Weekend will be Aug. 23 to 25 this year at Neil's home.

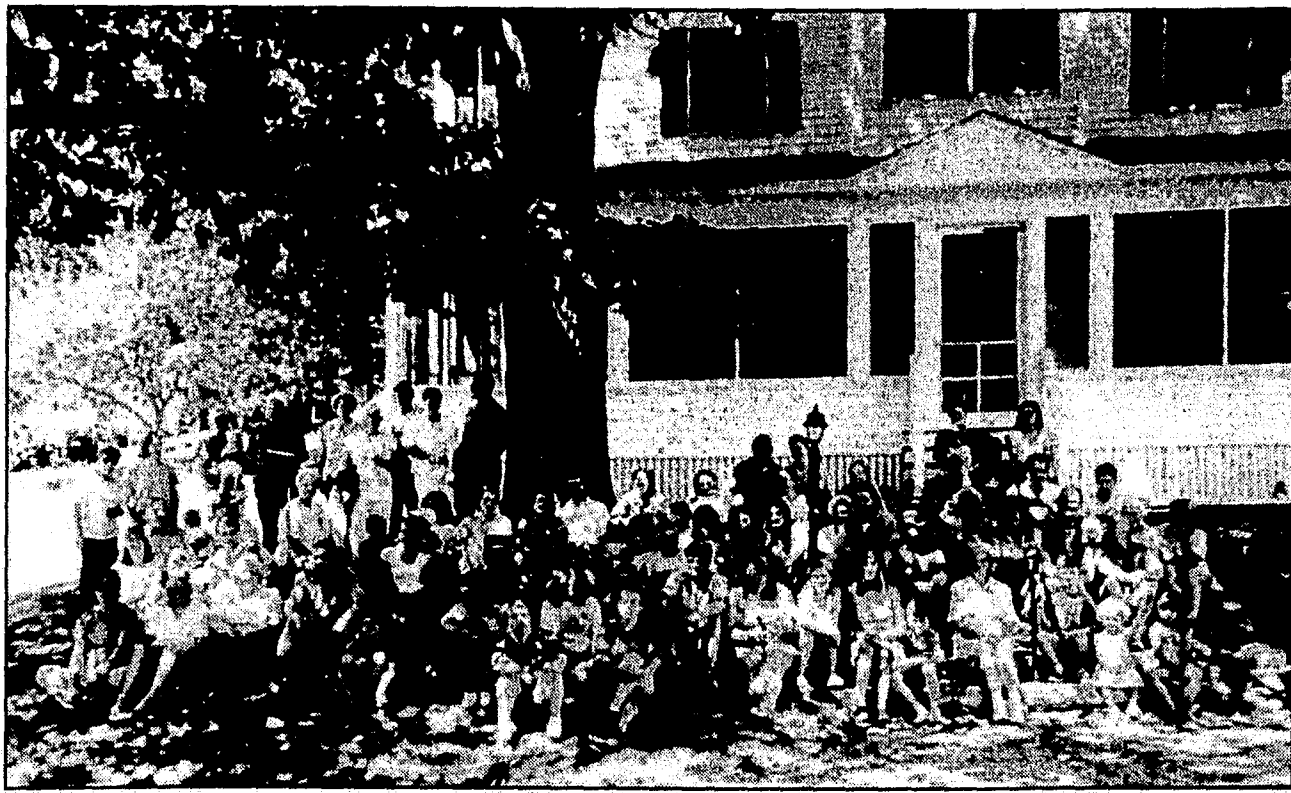

Lisa Haines will be in Ogden, Utah on Aug. 9 to visit her friend, Amy Finster, for a week.

Heidi P. and Michael Bourque had a baby boy, Cameron, born on Aug. 2. Heidi is Geneva and Larry Pelletier's daughter.

Alder River Grange will have a Yard Sale on Aug. 17. If you want a table or have "treasures" to donate, call Nancy Mercer at 824-3350 or Stanley Howe at 824-2291. Please, no clothing. The sale will be 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The supper schedule for Alder River Grange is as follows: Aug. 17, Chicken B-B-Q; Sept. 14, Chicken-Pot Pie; Oct. 19, Harvest Super; and Nov. 9, Turkey with all the fixings.

A GATHERING OF GROVERS
The Grover family reunion took place Saturday at the home of Rupert and Ina Grover in Mason Township. A total of 108 relatives, some of whom traveled from other parts of the country, attended the gathering.

Dave and Naomi Aho.

Jerry Bernier and Adam Grace have decided to make Bethel their home base with a new home.

Back to privies, Alder River Grange still has its two-holer. There has been talk every once in a while about replacing it, but it's still there.

If you have news, call me at 824-3350. If I'm not home, please leave a message on the answering machine. I know some people don't like them, but it frees a body up to go elsewhere without worry about missing a message or call. Thanks.

Have a good week. God Bless America.

Mason Township

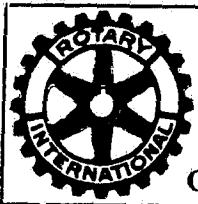

by Richard Grover

Last Saturday found another large gathering at "The Farm," home of Rupert and Ina Grover in Mason. This was a Grover reunion, which prompted a gathering of some 108 relatives from near and far. This gathering featured the usual picnic fare, capped by award-winning desserts, lots of reminiscing and a high-spirited softball game on the "not-so-level ball field." We had players ranging in age from about 10 to 70. After four hot, sweaty innings, the game broke up for cold lemonade, a few sore muscles and a little boasting about who made the biggest hit or caught the toughest fly ball.

The award for coming the greatest distance goes to Suzanne Grover Bernier and her son, Quentin, from Alameda, Calif. Others arrived from Illinois, Pittsburg and Burlington, Vt. Overall, it was a fun and very successful outing.

In other news, the congregation of the West Bethel Union Church bade a fond farewell to pastor John Williams last Sunday. He is retiring from the ministry to pursue other ventures. Williams had been our pastor for most of the past 10 years and has endeared himself to the hearts of the entire congregation. He has an engaging demeanor and a sincerity which made his sermons come alive and his religious services a pleasure to attend. His final West Bethel service was followed by a picnic and get-together at the Dan and Nancy Grover home in Mason. John Williams will be missed by us all, but we plan to stay in touch.

A couple weeks ago brought news of a successful search and rescue of a lady lost in the Caribou area. News of the successful three-day search for this lady by the Maine Warden Service and "other search and rescue agencies" failed to identify the other agencies involved. I wanted to point out that the Maine Wing of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) provided an incident coordinator and two three-person ground search teams to this effort, even though many of our adult leaders and about 65 cadets were engaged in summer encampment activities at Bog Brook at the time. CAP is an all-volunteer agency that is making a big effort to improve training and provide qualified search and rescue personnel while continuing to motivate and work with our teen-age cadets, providing chemical-free activities designed to teach teamwork and leadership. Most of our adult leaders also have full-time jobs in addition to their CAP activities.

Hanover

"We can't help you if we can't find you." That is the introduction to a new program sponsored by Med-Care Ambulance for the communities that are their service area. Because of the enhanced 911 changes in the area, Med-Care has experienced many situations where property owners are not displaying the new numbers, or any numbers at all. Because it is a serious situation, they have developed a program to assist all residents within their area. Residents may call Med-Care to schedule purchase and placement of the required house numbers that comply with local ordinances. When you call, they need your name, property number and house color. The number to call is 364-8748. Med-Care is accepting $5 donations for their assistance, which is used to support the Community Education Program. Hanover officials have indicated that house numbers should be four inches in size and a contrasting color from the house.

The fourth annual Howard Pond Flotilla and Picnic will be on Saturday, Aug. 10. (Rain date: Aug. 11.) All campers, guests and local residents are invited to bring their kayak, canoe or whatever self-propelled watercraft, to the Ledges at Howard Pond at 11 a.m. for a leisurely trip around the pond. Following the excursion, all are invited to "bring your own picnic" to the shores of the pond in front of the Dragoon Cottage. Grills, iced tea, lemonade and chips will be provided. This has been an enjoyable event for all in the past and organizers hope to have a large participation this year.

He is a legend in his own time and last week Bob Brown celebrated his birthday. Bob, Stanley Brown, Betty Hayden, Louise Worcester and Dave Worcester joined in the festivities at a Rumford restaurant.

Samuel T. Brown II from Plum-bago Mountain Farm went for a walk along the Howard Pond Road. As he passed the Ledges, a misguided fisherman's cast became imbedded in his skin. It caused Sam quite some pain so he sat next to the road, not feeling like going on or going home. Some time later when his nephew, Bob Brown, came along, Sam was very sad and obviously not well. After words with the ardent fisherman, Sam visited Dr. Tom DeLuca who last-ly removed the fishhook. At last word, Sam has returned to his normal routine.

Don't forget — the Hanover Community Neighborhood Watch meeting will be at the Town Office on Monday, Aug. 12 at 6 p.m. Everyone is welcome and one of the topics will be security at seasonal property.

The Newry Community Church picnic is Sunday afternoon starting at 3 p.m. with a short service and hymn singing, etc., then eating at 5 p.m. Everyone is welcome, bring a friend or more than one.

Dog days end Aug. 11 and cat nights begin the 16th. "Every dog must have his day, let the mongrel himself do what he may, but the cat will meow and the dog will have his day. But it has been the providence of nature to give the cat nine lives instead of one. Some people say, 'If it were not for my cat and dog, I think I could not live.' Treat your pets with kindness. They want your love." But, what about all those stray cats that are roaming around the neighborhood? Looking for food? Love?

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

Last Saturday, I received an interesting and informative letter from Lillian Fuller

Rose. She related fond memories of her early years in Upton. It has been 75 years since she lived in our town. Lillian is the last living grandchild of Lysander and Phoebe (Brooks) Fuller. Her grandparents moved to East "B" Hill in the late 1800s from Grafton. They were the parents of nine children. In the early 1900s the following established homes in Upton. They were Lincoln, Walter, Albert, John, Ida "Fuller" Warren and Ina "Fuller" Enman. Lysander and Phoebe rest in the Upton Cemetery. Others interred there are Lincoln, Walter, Ina, Ida, and Alphonso, who died as infants.

The Fullers, like many very connected families, are scattered from coast to coast. Lillian is 85 years old and has loving memories of her childhood and our lovely church.

This weekend the Fullers came together again at the Ladies Aid for their annual reunion. They wish to thank the Ladies Aid and the Friends of the Upton Church for the loving care given to the upkeep of these two old buildings. I join with my partners in this endeavor to say thank you for saying "Thank You" in such a heartfelt way. We hope the Fullers will return every year for a fine family reunion.

The Lake Umbagog Wildlife Festival in Errol was an outstanding success this year due to the many people who contributed. Main Street Errol was like Times Square. Mike Murphy's wood carving tent received particular notice by many people attending.

The Andover Olde Home Days was also held this weekend. It was a great time from start to finish. The Upton contingent was well represented. The Flower Show at the Historical Building is of particular interest to the women (and men) of Upton. Carolyn Hill Taylor's arrangement won a blue ribbon and "Best of Show" award. Patty Kenyon, Evelyn Kenney, Ellie LeComte and Lionel Roy all received ribbons. The judge must have had a difficult time picking out the winners as all the entries were beautiful.

Bob Yarnell had good luck fishing on Saturday. He landed a large salmon that was determined to be in the five-pound range. Bob did not say where he caught the "lunker." Ryan Fysh also caught a five and a half pound salmon in a body of water, which shall remain anonymous. No. We will not tell you its location until we have outdone Ryan and Bob by catching one at least six and a half pounds.

Clyde Stratton, we are happy to say, is home after being a patient in Maine Medical Center. His surgery was a great success. Barbara, his wife, has a full-time job holding him back from tackling the projects that he had started when so rudely interrupted.

Larry and Sue Nelson were visited by Larry's brother, Terry, and his wife, Jo, from Tennessee. The foursome covered the coast on the weekend ending up in Larry's son's home in Rye, N.H. Needless to say a good time was had by all.

The Geiling family annual reunion at their camp was also held over the weekend. Thirteen people, plus dogs, were there. Among the folks present were Amy, Jerry and Mathew Geiling. They formerly ran the Upton Trading Post.

The "Bird of the Week" is the much-loved Chickadee. We have a small flock residing in a wooded section. One little fellow spent half a day trying to get into a fake birdhouse in my garden He "chickadee-dee-dee" at everyone who invaded his privacy. In a recent study of "Bird Brains," the chickadee won first place for "smarts." There are lots of "Bird Brains" around. That lady turkey on Mill Road must have flunked the test. She spends most of her time trying to outrun cars. Someday she will lose.

Andover

by Joan Stinson Carney

For the first time in the history of Andover, the winners of the Little League

Western Maine Youth Softball Championship was — Andover Maine. This is the greatest thing since the invention of peanut butter. Under the coaching guidance of Brian Mills and Twyla Dolloff, our young ladies beat the pants off all the other teams. Team members include Abby Mills, Joselina Belanger, Kayla Damon, Cindy Farrington, Whitney Mills, Tonie Morin, Julia Stambolis, Esther Pew, Nicole Hughes, Debbie Dolloff, Amy Jane Mahar, Lindsey Milligan, Amy Farrington, and Sarah Averill. The whole town is very proud of all of you, and you looked great marching in the parade, too.

Edna White is now a patient at Rumford Community Hospital. If you haven't sent a card yet —

Congratulations to the Olde Home Days Committee; this year's weekend was a huge success. The committee works very hard all year to make this weekend special, and this last weekend was wonderful. I'm going to name a few winners this week, and more in the week's column to come.

First the parade. If I had been a judge, the little dachshund (hot dog) would have won first place. I've never seen anything so adorable in my life, but I wasn't a judge and so the winners of the floats this year are: 1st place, Mills Landscaping; 2nd place, Norma Farrington and family; 3rd place, Andover Bed & Breakfast; 4th, Leon and Trudy Akers; 5th, George Learned; 6th, Andover's Girls' Little League Softball Team. There were a lot of great floats this year, and it must have been very hard to pick the winners.

Photo Contest winners: Best of Show went to Karen McKay. Congrats Karen, it's a beautiful picture and you should be very proud. She also won first prize and grand prize in the Animal category for that photo. The winner of the first prize and the grand prize in the Portrait category was Ilene Trainor. The winner of the first prize and the grand prize in the Landscape category was Ilene Trainor. The winner of the first prize and grand prize in the Black and White category was Bob Chase. The winner of the first prize and the grand prize in the Ages 11 to 17 category was Michelle Andexler, and the winner of the first prize and the grand prize in the 10 and under category was Amy Jane Mahar. I am happy to announce that my 10-year-old niece, Olivia Carney Blain won third place in the Black and White contest. She will be so excited when I send her the ribbon. I want to especially thank and commend Angelo Katsos for his superb judging, and for all his hard work putting the exhibit together. He had 118 photos to judge, and believe me it wasn't an easy task.

Gerry Savitz, the Garden Contest coordinator, sent me the results of the Garden Contest. Thanks, Gerry. First prize in the Vegetable Garden went to Jim Coolidge, 2nd to the Pew Family, and there was a tie for 3rd, Joe Simard and Wayne Delano. Honorable mention went to Chris Bailey. First prize in the Flower Garden contest went to Kathy Conrad, 2nd to John and Judy Fox, 3rd to Violet Swain, honorable mention to Eileen Pew, Bibbi Downs and Carole Holtzman. Flowers and Vegetables Mixed: first, Dinah Cutting; 2nd, Leon and Jean Lewis. Flower Gardens: three years and younger category: first, Marsha Burns; 2nd, Jennifer Pitcher; 3rd, Maggie Alegria; and honorable mention, Tracy Morin. This year there were two judges, Susan Herlihy, master gardener from Newry and Cindy Bush, accredited flower show judge from Bourne, Mass.

Vicky Meisner reported that Randy Murray of Turner, won the 50/50 raffle.

The East Andover Community Club's raffle was won by Orville Meisner.

David Chaisson reported that Jim Kenney from Newry won the Covered Bridge painting and the proceeds from that raffle, $275 was donated by David to the Andover Congregational Church's Sunday School. I am really very angry that I didn't win that one, and if I ever find out where Mr. Kenney lives, he'd better keep that beautiful painting under lock and key and maybe he should buy a really vicious dog to guard it, too. I loved that painting — really loved it.

I know that a lot of people visited us here last weekend, and would love to have people call me with some names. I saw Jean Cushing Akers and her brother, Darrell Cushing, to wave to, and exchanged a few words with Ellie, the "Upton Lady." It was really nice to see her.

Birthdays for the following week: Freeman Farrington and Bob Hutchins on the 9th; Lee Brown, Steven Andexler, and Mae Maddix on the 11th; Jeanette Hutchins on the 12th; Cindy Gammon, Stephanie Percival, and Destiny Hutchins on the 13th; Brian Richardson, George Lozier, Misty Wheeler and Carrie Hudspeth on the 14th. Anniversaries: Tim and Darleen Akers on the 11th; Betsey and Chuck Cornwell, and Kenny and Vesta Lund on the 14th.

The word for the week is "folio." Look it up. See 'ya.

EVOLUTION OF A DECOY
A fish decoy exhibit was part of activities at the Umbagog Wildlife Festival this past weekend. Here, sisters Dr. Lauren Bogue of Maryland and the Rev. Louise Kingston of New Jersey listen to Mike Murphy describe the making of the decoys. In the past, the fake fish were utilized in ice fishing, in luring predatory fish close enough for the fisherman to spear them. The practice is now outlawed.

Another week has gone. It was a busy weekend here. Colista and Stephen Cogswell and Gary and Karen Green and son Cody all from Freeport were here.

Lillian and Glenn Strait, their daughter Melanie Damon from Pownal, Walter and Marie Curtis, Carl Curtis, Fred Curtis and daughters, Felicia and Akayla, William and Albert Curtis III were all here Sunday. Most of them went up to South Arm boating. They had a good time but some got sunburned.

Walter and Laurel Curtis brought me a nice quilt she had made for my birthday, which was a very nice piece of work all done by hand.

Ann Payne had her mother, Faye Holt, to the hospital for several hours for tests. She came back home and is doing all right now, but didn't find out the problem.

Betty Curtis has had some of her grandchildren visiting her.

They have started haying at the Holt farm now.

We want to give our condolences to Grace Yates and family for the loss of her husband, Lawrence Yates. He was buried at the Hicks Cemetery here in Greenwood.

The coydogs are around a lot now. I keep my cat in, as they usually get some of our cats every year at this time.

That's it for now. Have a good and safe week.

slower and get more tired quicker than I used to.

I'm also sorry I did not get a sympathy article in for the family of Mellen Kimball, but I only heard of his death yesterday. We are all sorry that he has left us but certainly admire his courage and fight to battle all his health problems as he did. It seems such a short time ago that John had him come to our apartment in Bethel to fix something and he was in his 30s, and early 30s at that. We could always count on him to be at Bob's store at least once a day to share the news going around. He certainly will be missed.

The Coolidge family must feel that too much is happening all at once, as I saw Phyllis last week when I was at Stephens with Andy. I didn't get a chance to talk, as she was being wheeled along by ambulance attendants. But whatever the problem, I hope she gets better very soon. And then I heard that her mother was taken ill a couple days ago. Mercy, no one deserves so many troubles, much less that family.

I was surprised lately by the second flower stalk on my amaryllis this year. I always felt blessed when I got one. We also were pleased to have one of the rose bushes we planted bloom. One of them is looking a bit peaked and I was really looking forward to having flowers on that one, as they are really a lovely color. Oh, well, maybe next year.

We had another crow family in our backyard trying to get a baby to fly and it took 12 others to offer help and encouragement. What a racket. It is neat, though, how they all get in on the act. I've seen swallows do that when a baby has problems getting into the air.

We've seen a couple herons fishing out back but the ducks seem to have vanished, except for the occasional late bloomers. It only serves to tell us fall and winter are not far behind and summer has only started. Seems as if there are too many winter months and not enough summer ones.

An 80th birthday party for Charlotte Cole will be held at the Locke Mills Union Church (Sunday School room) on Saturday, Aug. 10, from 2 to 4 p.m. All her friends and relatives are invited to come and greet Charlotte on this special occasion.

The meeting began at 7 p.m. and there was an executive session for about 20 minutes. When they adjourned, chairman Jim Owen continued the meeting. It was a tough decision whether the case should be heard de novo, which means a new or again, or if it should be considered as appellate session, which means the board would review the planning board's decision and whether it acted properly under the law. On May 29 the planning board approved the permit and on July 9, Kezar Lake Watershed Association appealed the decision. At this meeting there was testimony from a biologist and then a scientist and lawyer from both sides. Owen said the board needs more time to discuss whether it is a new plan or amended application. After all was said and done, the board scheduled another meeting for 7 p.m. on Aug. 12 in the Stoneham Fire Station after specialists have had time to review the case. Hopefully, all can come to an agreement on this matter in a friendly way. There has been some vandalism going on at the marina since the first meeting. Maine State Police are investigating this matter and I think that they have some fingerprints.

Joyce Bray and Melissa Elliott, Crystal Bray, Nichole Bray and Taylor Elliott were here from Dry Fork, Va. for a week visiting grandparents, Delbert and Joyce McAllister recently.

Oxford County United Parish Sunday worship moves to Stoneham Church beginning Aug. 4 and continues through the months of September and October. Vacation Bible School will be held the week of Aug. 19 through 23 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the North Waterford Church. Volunteers are needed to help with activities, refreshments and transportation. Contact the Rev. Frobig if you are interested.

"Family is at the center of life's meaning. Individuals linked together by a golden chain of love, family celebrates triumphs and shares adversities across generations and across the miles. Like a never-ending hug, family encircles each member with steadfast devotion and enduring love. Family is belonging to and believing in each other." — Anon.

The next reunion will be held in August 2007.

From

Gould Academy

Gould Academy announced the establishment of the William M. "Pete" Throop Jr. Scholarship, which is intended to provide assistance for a student from the greater Bethel area and nearby communities to attend the academy.

Throop of New Canaan, Conn., a former Gould trustee, died in June 2002. It was his wish that upon his death friends and family make gifts to Gould Academy in lieu of flowers. With many contributions received, the academy suggested to the family that a Pete Throop scholarship be established for a deserving Bethel area day student. The family enthusiastically agreed. When Head of School Dan Kunkle called Ann Throop to tell her that the scholarship was about to become reality, she wrote to him the following:

"Throughout his life, my husband felt he derived tremendous benefit and pleasure from the education he received growing up. He was so interested from the first time I visited Bethel with him in 1951 and walked around the town and the

Reunions

BERRY—ELDRIDGE

Hi and Mary Lou Berry of Lone Pine, Newry, hosted the Berry-Eldredge Family Reunion on Aug. 3. Descendants and relatives of Ralph and Helen Eldredge Berry gathered for a day of food, games, and competitions.

Receiving the award for the youngest member was Ralph Enzo Caruso, oldest was Hi Berry, and traveling the farthest were Albert Joseph, Kelly, and Joley Jude Costa of San Francisco.

The hotly contested two-man crosscut saw competition was won by David and Nathalie Berry, beating the reigning champions, Albert and Kelly Costa. Mixed doubles horseshoes was won by Mike and Shannon Stevens. Singles horseshoes champion was Wayne Doyon. The golf competition was won by Wade Osgood, and the homerun derby was won by Scott Bourget. Alyson Cook took home the trophy for the children's obstacle race. Volleyball and softball games continued throughout the day.

Those attending from Maine were Hi and Mary Lou Berry; Marjorie, be held at the Community Hall next door. The dining room fills up fast, so you'll want to make sure you get there in plenty of time to find a seat.

We received a very nice letter from a young girl living in Sanford. She'll be moving to Albany sometime next year, and had sent us a note saying that she reads our column, that she is home-schooled and would like it very much if any of the kids we know (and we know a few) would write to her so that she can have some friends before moving here. We are hoping that the Youth Group kids will write to her. Sheila mentioned it at the last song rehearsal, and will make sure that the girl's address is written down so that the kids can write to her. It was very nice to find out that people outside of the Bethel area read the columns. It's always nice to know what's going on around other than those stories considered "newsworthy." We'll let you in on a little secret — we read the other columns, too.

Well, the summer is fast closing in on the Return to School. We are sure that all of the children out there are just anxiously awaiting for the school bells to chime once more. So, with that, we will end our column for this week.

May God bless and keep you in his mercy and grace.

AUGUST 2002

Gould campus, admiring the building and gazing at the inspiring beauty of the surroundings. We talked about Gould through the many years of his deep involvement, about the wonderful people he came to know, the many he worked with of whom he thought so highly, young people he appreciated as he watched them grow in their time at Gould. I know it would be very meaningful to him, and it is to us his family, that students living in the Bethel area would be able to come to learn at this special place because of his scholarship fund. We want to express on his behalf heartfelt thanks to all who are making their contribution to young people's lives in this way."

The academy has already received numerous contributions to the scholarship fund. In addition, the Betterment Fund created by William Bingham, II, of which Mr. Throop was also a trustee, has made a sizable contribution so that a Pete Throop Scholar can be chosen for the upcoming academic year.

Throop served Gould in many ways over his life, principally as a trustee from 1961 through 1985, and president of the board from 1969 to 1979. He was a senior partner with the law firm of Davidson, Dawson, and Clark in New York City, which represented William Bingham, II, a 20th Century benefactor for Bethel and Gould. Throop was also a trustee of the Bingham Betterment Fund for over 40 years and in that capacity helped steward the legacy that Mr. Bingham established in his will. During this time, the Betterment Fund has awarded many grants to both Gould Academy and deserving not-for-profit organizations in Bethel and surrounding towns. Carolyn Wollen, a Gould trustee and a former colleague of Mr. Throop's at his law office and a fellow trustee of the Betterment Fund remarked:

"For those of us who knew and worked with Pete, it is difficult to overstate the importance of his guidance and contributions to Gould Academy during his lifetime. He helped Gould achieve financial stability in the post-William Bingham era and brought a much greater representation of Gould alumni/ae and local citizens to the academy's board of trustees. Pete's many years in Bethel brought him lifelong friendships and a belief in the significance of this special place in Maine. As an eminent estate planning attorney, he also believed in the importance of supporting educational and other charitable institutions and helped his many clients carry forward their own charitable plans. So, it is particularly fitting that this scholarship be established in his name at Gould."

The trustees of Gould Academy are very pleased that his family, friends and colleagues have created an enduring legacy in his memory at Gould. Dan Kunkle said, "Gould Academy's connection to the greater Bethel community is a signal strength of this school, and I am deeply pleased that a memorial to Mr. Throop will support even greater participation of local families in the life of the Academy."

The Throop scholarship is the newest of five Gould scholarship programs specifically designated for local area day students. The others are the Edmund J. Vachon Scholarship, named for late Headmaster Emeritus and resident Ed Vachon; the James D. and Consuelo Z. Alger Scholarship established by the late Jim and Consuelo Alger of Bethel; the Joe Roderick Scholarship created to honor Richmond L. "Joe" Roderick who was the director of physical education, track and football coach at Gould from 1942 to 1975; and the Bevin Family Scholarship established by the children of Avery and Louise Bevin, formerly of Shelburne, N.H., now living in Littleton.

The academy welcomes inquiries from families of high school age students in Bethel or surrounding towns in Maine or New Hampshire who are interested in learning more about Gould and the new Throop grant or any of the other Gould scholarships.

Gould Academy is an independent boarding and day school enrolling approximately 230 students in grades nine through postgraduate. It has been serving students in Bethel and other communities for 166 years. In addition to a full college preparatory curriculum, team and individual competitive sports and extracurricular activities, Gould offers specialized programs in science and technology, art, skiing, snowboarding and outdoor experiences.

From the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

The 22nd annual Sudbury Canada Days, the Bethel Historical Society's summer heritage festival, will be held on Aug. 9, 10, 11 at the Regional History Center on Broad Street. A wide variety of heritage-oriented activities will be taking place over the three days.

The theme for the Children's Parade (ages up through 12 years of age) on Aug. 10 will have as its theme, "Star Spangled American." Brenda Dyer of Upton will be in charge of children's activities that will include a wide variety of old-time games as well as the always-popular ice cream eating contest. Participants are needed for all these games and prizes will be given.

The Civil War re-enactors will arrive on Friday evening and be here until Sunday. They will present a special program following the bean supper on Saturday night.

Sudbury Canada days began in 1980 and celebrates Bethel's historic name which was in place from 1768 until 1796. This early name honored the original grantees from Sudbury, Massachusetts, who had fought unsuccessfully to conquer Canada in 1690. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts rewarded these men with land in the "District of Maine," naming it in honor of their Massachusetts town and in the campaign in which they served.

Sudbury Canada Days

Aug. 9, 10 and 11

Sudbury Canada was Bethel's name from the time of the granting of this western Maine township in 1768 to its incorporation in 1796. This early name honored the original grantees from Sudbury, Mass., who had fought unsuccessfully to conquer Canada in 1690. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts rewarded these men with land in the "District of Maine," naming it in honor of their Massachusetts town and the campaign in which they served. Bethel was never part of Canada. "Sudbury Canada Days," the summer heritage festival of the Bethel Historical Society, honors the town's rich heritage dating from the 18th century.

From the Western Mountains Senior College

The Western Mountains Senior College held its first field trip Wednesday, July 24. The trip was to Forest Lodge, home of Maine author Louise Dickinson Rich, on the shores of the Rapid River. Twenty-five members were bused through Grafton Notch while being entertained and informed by retired Gould Academy English teacher, Frank Vogt of Bethel, who had researched Louise and her writings.

Our first stop was at Middle Dam on Richardson Lake, where we were introduced to the keeper of the dam, as well as to Aldro French, our host. We saw how the dam worked and learned its importance over the years as we watched fishermen try their luck in the water at the foot of the dam.

Then, it was on to Forest Lodge where Louise lived and wrote many of her books. The Winter Camp was explored first, and we all were pleased to learn that not much has been changed from those days in the '40s when Louise and Ralph lived in this small, efficient cabin. The views of the river off the porch looking toward Pondy Dam were beautiful.

Next, we moved to the porch of the Summer Camp and were joined there by Alys Parsons who ran Lakewood Camps for years and was a friend to Louise and Ralph. Aldro and his wife made us feel welcome and comfortable on the porch where we ate our picnic lunches and learned more about the times of the author in these woods she loved.

The cool temperatures, the clear skies, the music of the Rapid River and the stop for ice cream on the way home left all of us with good memories of this first trip together.

You may call Adult Education Office at Telstar High School or watch for our ad on cable Channel 4 for information on how you can join the fun.

From the Telstar Alumni Association

The Telstar Alumni Association will hold its fifth annual Alumni Day at Telstar Regional High School on Saturday, Aug. 10, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. All graduates are welcome to come for a BBQ at noon and to reminisce with former classmates. Even those who did not graduate, but did attend, we encourage them to also join the fun. We hope to see you at Telstar on Saturday, the 10th. Come one, come all.

Good times in Hospitality Valley

THERE WAS PLENTY OF HOSPITALITY IN THE VALLEY at Andover Olde Home Days this past weekend. Clockwise, from top left: Andover fireman Dennis Hall checks the chicken for the Fire Department's barbecue fundraiser; the second-place Farrington family "Compnee Comin" float (first place went to Mills Landscaping); an unidentified horseshoe competitor lets fly; youngsters try their luck at hatchet-throwing; and Sheridan MacKnight and others check out the flower show.

In the Event of My Demise

In the event of my demise, when my heart can do no more. I hope I die for a principle, or a belief that I had lived 4. I will die before my time, because I feel the shadow's depth. So much I wanted 2 accomplish, before I reached my death. I have come 2 grips with the possibility, and wiped the last tear from my eyes. I loved all who were positive, in the event of my demise!
